

Wrightslaw: All About IEPs - Is Your Child's IEP Individualized?

| Question | Yes | No |
|--|-----|----|
| 1. Does the IEP include accurate information about your child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 2. Does the IEP identify all your child's needs that result from the disability? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 3. Does the IEP include measurable goals? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 4. Are the measurable goals based on your child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 5. Does the IEP describe how and when the school will measure your child's progress toward the goals? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 6. Does the IEP specify when you will receive reports on your child's progress toward the annual goals? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 7. Does the IEP include a statement of the special education services, related services, and supplementary aids and services that the school will provide? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 8. Does the IEP allow your child to make progress in the general curriculum, and participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 9. Does the IEP include an explanation of the extent to which your child will be educated with children who are not disabled? Comments/Concerns: | | |
| 10. Does the IEP include the projected date services will begin? Frequency? Location and duration of services? Comments/Concerns: | | |